

Saturday 22nd April | 9pm

Glenuig Hall, Glenuig

Late Night Session: Megan Henderson

Local hero Megan Henderson returns with members of her band Breabach, a real success-story for Scots traditional music. We feel extremely lucky to have them at Loch Shiel Festival this year for a very special late night performance, exploring the festival theme of Music Lost/Music Found.

£12/£6

Sunday 23rd April | 1pm

The Lime Tree, Fort William

New Songs for Treasures Old

The result of a fascinating collaboration between the Poet Makar of Stirling Clive Wright, the Smith Stirling Museum, and composers Tom David Wilson and Kostas Rekleitis, we present a brand new song-cycle performed by celebrated Scottish soprano Elizabeth McCormack. Festival director Duncan Strachan joins McCormack for these fascinating songs, which ruminate on lost and found objects.

£10/£5

To book tickets please visit
www.lochshiefestival.com

or phone: 01967 402313

Sunday 23rd April | 6pm

Glenfinnan Church

Music Lost/Music Found: Closing Concert

The closing concert of the festival is a spectacular programme devised carefully around the Lost/Found theme. Showcasing many of the festival artists, we are taken on a journey through musical history in the evocative setting of Glenfinnan Church, with a diverse programme of vocal and instrumental music. Join us for this inspirational and beautiful close to the 2017 festival.

Music by Arvo Part, William Sweeney, J.S Bach, William Byrd, James MacMillan, Benjamin Britten and featuring St Finnan's Voices, Maxwell Quartet, Atéa Quintet, Robert Irvine and more.

This concert will be held in memory of the late George Dodgshon, one of the founding fathers of the Loch Shiel Festival.

£12/£6

Sunday 23rd April | 8:30pm

Princes House Hotel, Glenfinnan

Festival Dinner and Afterparty

Drawing the festival to a memorable close, one of Scotland's finest chefs, Kieron Kelly, prepares a delicious post-concert dinner, in the homely surroundings of the Prince's House Hotel. Booking early is advised.

Afterwards, we party the night away with the Festival Afterparty, featuring impromptu performances from some of the festival artists.

£35 meal and afterparty

£10 afterparty only

LOCH SHIEL FESTIVAL

20-23 APRIL 2017

music lost // music found

www.lochshiefestival.com

Wednesday 19th April | 7pm
Corryhully Bothy, Glenfinnan Estate

Pre-Festival Event: Peaks: Concert in A Bothy

Fresh from their innovative site-specific project on the Isle of Skye, called Concert in A Coire, musicians George Smith and Duncan Strachan present an atmospheric programme of their own fusion of traditional and experimental music, in the surroundings of the Coryhully Bothy

£12/£6

Thursday 20th April | 7:30pm
The Lime Tree, Fort William

Music Lost/Music Found: Opening Concert with Rachel Walker

Our first event to be held in Fort William, this year's opening concert promises to be a very special coming together of some of the country's best musicians. Starring local Gaelic singer Rachel Walker, alongside an array of festival artists, this evening is set to offer a spellbinding introduction to the festival's Music Lost/Music Found theme.

£12/£6

Friday 21st April | 1pm
Acharacle Parish Church

Music Lost/Music Found: Atéa Wind Quintet

The Atéa Quintet is the foremost British wind quintet of its generation. Don't miss this phenomenal ensemble of some of the country's finest wind musicians! Here they will perform a captivating selection of works from their forthcoming debut CD.

£10/£5
Friday 21st April | 2:30pm
Dalilea House, Acharacle

A Walk Through the Forgotten Past

Join us on a magical journey along the shores of Loch Shiel, led by local historian John Dye. We'll trace the so-called "coffin trail", remembering Acharacle and Loch Shiel in times gone by, including the birth of Alistair MacMaghister, the bard of the Gaelic enlightenment, at Dalilea House. Of course, there will be some musical surprises along the way!

£10/£5

Friday 21st April | 6:30pm
Shielbridge Hall, Acharacle

Atéa Quintet and Friends

Don't miss this fantastic coming together of two of the country's top young ensembles, who have become fast friends over their careers thus far! The Atéas are joined here by festival favourites the Maxwell Quartet for an evening of some of the most sumptuous music composed for mixed chamber ensemble, including one of Brahms' great masterpieces, the Clarinet Quintet.

The traditional buffet meal will be available after this concert.

£12/£6 for concert £30/£24 for concert and meal

Friday 21st April | 9pm
Shielbridge Hall, Acharacle

Late Night Session: Ainsley Hamill & Alistair Paterson

Our amazing partnership with Live Music Now Scotland continues this year with a very special performance from one of Scotland's most talented traditional song duos. Ainsley (song) and Alistair (piano/keyboards) have been performing together for almost six years after first meeting at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland in 2009. Both members of the critically acclaimed folk band 'Barluath' (www.barluath.com), they have also performed extensively as a duo.

Saturday 22nd April | 11am
Glenuig Hall, Glenuig
Traditional Tunes For Tiny People!

Ainsley Hamill & Alistair Paterson

Live Music Now artists bring their fun-filled and toe-tapping workshops for little ones to the shores of Glenuig! Using Glenuig Hall as a base we will be exploring music and having a chance to play along with these brilliant musicians. ALL ages are welcome and there is guaranteed to be something for everyone, from toddlers to grown-ups!

Free, but booking required

Saturday 22nd April | 1pm
Glenuig Hall, Glenuig

Maxwell Quartet with Robert Irvine: Schubert Quintet

In this much-anticipated concert, we welcome back legendary Scottish cellist Robert Irvine to perform one of the greatest pieces in the entire chamber music repertoire: Schubert's beautiful Quintet in C. Seen by many as the composer's swansong, it is sure to be a unique and special performance, in one of our favourite Loch Shiel locations.

£10/£5

Saturday 22nd April | 6pm
Roshven House, Roshven

Songs Remembered: Lochaber District Gaelic Choir

The festival is delighted to present a concert from one of the musical gems of the Lochaber area - the Lochaber District Gaelic Choir, led by Rachel Walker. Winners of the Mod's prestigious Margaret Duncan competition for the past two years running, we are truly thrilled to be joined for a programme of lost Gaelic songs from the western isles of Scotland.

£12/£6